

Timothy J. Dyck

BIO

Originally from Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, and by way of England, Lebanon, Wales, Oregon and Canada, Tim graduated from Western Bible College in Salem, Oregon (now Corbin University) with a degree in Social Science.

After years of working in juvenile justice in a variety of capacities, Tim went on to get a Master's Degree in Social Work at the University of Washington, where he also met his wife, Sarah.

Following receiving his MSW, Tim worked in a variety of capacities in the field of child protection. They moved to Iowa in 2005. After a few years in Iowa, Tim could no longer ignore the call to pastoral ministry. In 2011, he graduated from the University of Dubuque Theological Seminary with a Master's in Divinity.

Tim and Sarah's family include two sons, Geoffrey and Ian, and two American English Coonhounds named Wallace and Gromit.

Tim is passionate about the church and helping people encounter the living God through Jesus Christ. He is particularly interested in how worship forms us spiritually, what leads to church growth and how churches can present the gospel in ways that foster authentic spiritual growth and nurture. He is also known for helping organize and design worship services that participants have described as meaningful and uplifting as they live out their faith.
